GFWC/CT and New England Region+

Since 1897 the General Federation of Women's Clubs of Connecticut has been a member of the world's oldest and largest women's service organization dedicated to enhancing the lives of others through volunteer service. The General Federation of Women's Clubs, working in the United States and globally in more than fourteen countries, supports the arts, preserve natural resources, promote education, encourage healthy lifestyles, stress civic involvement, and work toward world peace and understanding. GFWC members create global change working on a local level.

To promote a better understanding of the structure, programs and challenges of GFWC, the United States is divided into eight regions. Each year a regional meeting is organized and clubs through that region come together to participate in workshops, panel discussions, listen to speakers, view exhibitor displays and enjoy friendships. These meetings also allow for the opportunity to meet and share time with the GFWC International President, and various other GFWC Officers and region officers.

GFWC/CT is a member of the New England Region . consisting of clubs from Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. Meetings are scheduled on a rotating basis, with the 2011 New England Region Conference being hosted by the state of Connecticut. September 23 . 25 will see members from all of these states coming together to unite for "The Magic of Volunteerism in GFWC New England Region" a mystical meeting in Mystic, Connecticut.
